

The background of the slide is a photograph. In the foreground, a black calculator is shown from a high angle, with its keypad clearly visible. The keypad includes buttons for numbers 0-9, a decimal point, an equals sign, a plus sign, a minus sign, a multiplication sign, a division sign, a square root sign, a percentage sign, a clear (CE) button, and memory function buttons (MC, MR, M-, M+, ON/C). In the background, a dark-colored mug is partially visible, resting on a surface that appears to be a desk with a grid pattern. The lighting is warm and focused on the calculator and mug.

▶ BDO ASIA PACIFIC REGIONAL TAX CONFERENCE 2010

Date : 19 August 2010, Thursday
Time : 8.30am - 5.45pm
Venue : Banquet Suite, M Hotel, 81 Anson Road
Fee : S$200 nett (Clients/ Alumni)
S$250 nett (Public)

As companies expand their operations into newer markets and territories, tax planning and compliance becomes critical. Thailand has regulations and restrictions regarding foreign investment while China has introduced new regulations on taxation of income derived by foreign companies. India is proposing a new Direct Tax Code whilst Singapore is introducing tax regulations which would enable it to build capabilities and grow over the next decade. Our speakers from BDO Asia offices will give you an in-depth understanding of the evolving tax and regulatory environment in these countries. This would equip you on planning your tax strategies. Attend BDO's Regional Tax Conference, 2010 and gain a better understanding on:

- Recent Tax changes in Singapore and Malaysia
- Issues to be aware of when investing into China, India and Thailand
- Transfer Pricing Developments and recent updates
- Tax Strategies to be adopted to minimise tax risks
- New planning opportunities which could reduce effective tax costs

This full day conference aims to give deeper insight into the tax impact and issues to be considered when doing business in these countries.
